Schlyer Machine Builds New Facility from Ground-Up

Schlyer Machine (SMC) has moved its operations to a 40,000 ft² facility. The new Building was built on a 4 acre plot that is a remediated former Brownfield site. SMC has implemented energy efficient measures in accordance with LEED (Leader in Energy Efficient Designs) guidelines, in order to obtain a certified Green Building Status from the US Green Building Council. The Council is a coalition of leaders from the building industry that promote environmentally responsible workplaces.

For more information on this exciting move or certification, please contact Jennifer Fiorello, Marketing Coordinator, at jfiorello@ogsi.com, or the address listed below.
